Late Returns From Fairfield
May Change Lineup for November Election

Harold K. (Happy) Claypool, Chillicothe, was renominated for a second term as congressman on the Democratic ticket in Tuesday's primary on unofficial returns from the counties of the 11th district. Claypool was far in the lead over his opponents, Robert L. Immell, Yellowblow, and Dr. James Lantz, Lancaster.

Tabulations on unofficial reports for the counties at noon Wednesday were: Pickaway, complete, Claypool 2510, Immell 1143, Lantz 567; Ross, complete, Claypool 4453, Immell 1462, Lantz 381; Fairfield, 57 out of 70 precincts, Claypool 2100, Immell 196, Lantz 2900; Perry, complete, Claypool 2033, Immell 597, Lantz 725; Hocking, complete, Claypool 2483, Immell 586, Lantz 824.

Silbaugh, White Close

The Republican race between Creed Silbaugh, Chillicothe, and Tom White, Fairfield county, at noon Wednesday showed White leading 5443 to 3910, unofficially. County reports were: Pickaway, complete, Silbaugh 749, White 573; Ross, complete, Silbaugh 1913, White 1422; Fairfield, 27 out of 70 precincts, Silbaugh 457, White 618; Perry, complete, Silbaugh 1214, White 1886, and Hocking, complete, Silbaugh 577, White 944.

Lack of returns from Fairfield county made it impossible to determine the outcome of the race for central committeewoman between Mrs. Olivia Talbott Hays, Circleville. (Continued on Page Eight)

TWO TRAPPED BY FLAMES, DIE IN YOUTHS' CAMP

EAST HEBRON, N. H., Aug. 10—(UP)—Trapped in their beds, two young counselors of Camp Mowels were killed early today when fire destroyed the assembly hall at the old-established boys' camp on the shore of New Found lake.

The victims were Robert Blake, 17, Ardmore, Pa., and Richard Hooper, 16, Manchester, Mass. From their sleeping quarters in surrounding cabins, 103 boys spending the summer at the camp were led to safety.

Camp Director Elwell and Robert H. Iglehart of Indianapolis, Ind., a camp attaché, attempted to rescue the trapped boys but the assembly hall, a 60-by-30 foot building, was a mass of flames by the time they reached it.

The camp's boys, after leaving their cabins, were escorted to the lakeside where they sang campfire songs for nearly an hour before they learned of the deaths of Hooper and Blake.

Brimstone District Auto
Driver Admits Charge
Of Manslaughter

One to 20 years in the Ohio penitentiary was the sentence imposed on Beeman Leasure, 28, of the Brimstone district of Ross county, Wednesday when he admitted a charge of second degree manslaughter in Common Pleas court. Leasure's trial had been set for Aug. 15.

Two indictments were returned against Leasure in the traffic deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Crawford, Whisler, on Route 56 last May 9. An auto driven by Leasure collided with the Crawford car. Leasure was accused of driving when intoxicated when the crash occurred. Mr. Crawford was instantly killed. His wife died 10 hours later.

Leasure pleaded guilty to the indictment involving the death of Mrs. Crawford.

F. D. LOSES GOOD FRIEND AS POPE FALLS IN IDAHO

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—(UP)—President Roosevelt's campaign for election of strictly pro-New Deal primary candidates suffered a severe blow today in the defeat of Sen. James P. Pope in Idaho by Rep. D. Worth Clark, conservative Democrat.

Pope was one of three Democratic senators carrying administration endorsement whose seats were at stake in yesterday's primaries. Of the others, Sen. Robert J. Bulkley won renomination handily in Ohio over former Gov. George White and Sen. Hattie Caraway held a small lead in Arkansas over Rep. John L. McClellan.

The Idaho contest was most significant because Pope was one of the authors of the farm bill and Clark campaigned as a conservative Democrat. Pope sought reelection on the basis of 100 percent New Deal loyalty. He is the first important administration senator to fall in the primaries.

Japanese Army Lines on North Bank of Yangtse
Reported Breaking

SHANGHAI, Aug. 10—(UP)—Chinese military spokesmen said today that Japanese army lines on the North bank of the Yangtse river below Hankow were wavering under a reinforced Chinese drive.

Four thousand Japanese troops were barricaded in the ruins of Hwangmei, on the North bank of the river 125 miles above Anking, after a severe engagement in flood waters, the Chinese said.

Chinese troops fought to the heights overlooking the city. There was a foot of water in the streets of Hwangmei and the Chinese said the Japanese trenches in the lowlands were flooded.

The munitions supply of the Japanese was rapidly dwindling. Much was lost in the floods while the Chinese kept their munitions dry on the highlands, Chinese reports said.

JOHN ROOSEVELT TAKES DEPARTMENT STORE JOB

BOSTON, Aug. 10—(UP)—On a Monday morning later this month, John Roosevelt will report for work at the William Filene's Sons department store.

Company officials insisted today that his salary had not been fixed. They declined to comment further on a report that the President's youngest son would start at $18 a week.

Young Roosevelt is due back from Bermuda Monday with his bride, the former Anne Lindsay Clark of Boston.

CARROLL ON STAND

SOUTH PARIS, Me., Aug. 10—(UP)—Francis M. Carroll, under cross-examination at his murder trial today, testified that he "thought" Paul (Buddy) Dwyer must have had an accomplice in the slaying of a country doctor.

JAP AND RUSS TROOPS DIG IN FOR BIG FIGHT

MANY DEATHS REPORTED

Hand Grenades Tossed into Fortifications by Men
Of Both Sides

TOKYO, Aug. 10—(UP)—Japanese and Russian troops hastily entrenched themselves on a five mile front along the Siberian frontier today after an 11 hour battle in which Japanese asserted that they repulsed repeated Russian attacks with heavy losses.

Dispatches indicated that a big scale fight might be impending. The Russians were massing men behind their lines. The rumble of field guns intensified as the artillerymen sought to silence each others' batteries.

A. L. Aisin, Russian counsel general at Keijo (Seoul), capital of Korea, left for Moscow today "on furlough," and it was reported that Russia might close the consulate general because of the frontier situation.

Heavy Losses Feared

Fighting started in the Changkufeng sector at 8 o'clock last night and ended only at 7 a. m. today. It was believed that losses were heavy on both sides.

As the infantrymen stopped their fighting at 7 a. m., the artillery took up the work. The infantrymen on both sides dug trenches and, in plain view of each other, erected barbed wire entanglements in front of their positions.

This afternoon they began exchanging a brisk bombardment of hand grenades, which they were able to throw into each others' trenches. Army authorities here said that Japanese casualties in the exchange were light because the Russians could not throw accurately. The Japanese play baseball.

The new trench line, the first, it was indicated, in the new series of frontier clashes, extended from Hill 52 northward to Changkufeng.

Japanese dispatches said that Russians were massing on the Hsulinfeng sector but that because the terrain was marshy and unsuited for trench warfare, they had to bring up their troops along a route which the Japanese commanded. The Japanese permitted the Russians to advance unmolested, it was asserted, because they did not want to violate Russian territory.

IRISH CAPTURE WASHINGTON TO LAUD CORRIGAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—(UP)—The Irish captured Washington today as Douglas Corrigan came to the nation's capital and received the tumultuous welcome reserved for heroes.

The flag of Ireland flew over Washington and thousands showed at police lines as Corrigan flew in from Baltimore for a hero's acclaim.

The flying Irishman, catapulted from obscurity by his wrong-way flight to Dublin, came to the capital for an official greeting from government heads and an unofficial welcome from the Irish.

The Irish were out in force when Corrigan flew in at 11:35 a. m. More than 5,000 people pushed against police lines at the airport as the grinning little Irishman arrived in the cockpit of an airliner.

Blaise Washington, accustomed to official welcomes, was ready to shed its air of indifference for the celebration. Led by Irish officials, between 200,000 and 300,000 people were expected to cheer the little aviator before the welcome is complete.

DIES SUMMONS 25 TO TESTIFY ON CONSPIRACY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—(UP)—Chairman Martin Dies, D., Tex., of the house committee investigating un-American activities, announced today that more than 25 persons have been subpoenaed to testify at its inquiry beginning Thursday.

Names of witnesses were withheld "for obvious reasons," Dies said, "but there are some important figures among them and we expect startling disclosures."

Simultaneously, the navy department began a check on all aliens employed in its huge shipbuilding program and President Roosevelt signed an executive order permitting the Dies committee to inspect income, excess profits, and capital stock tax returns.

Similar executive orders have been issued to other congressional committees. But considerable significance was attached to the navy department's order inasmuch as spy precautions have been redoubled in recent months.

Commanding naval officers have been ordered to forward the names of all aliens on their payrolls, their addresses, rates of pay and reason for employment by Nov. 1. The order does not apply to enlisted personnel.

FIGHTERS WEIGH IN

District Choice

Wayne Brown, Madison township, won the Democratic nomination for county commissioner in Tuesday's primary in a field with four candidates.

Brown's votes in the unofficial tabulation totaled 1,682. He will oppose C. E. Wright, Harrison township, Republican, who seeks reelection at the November election. Mr. Wright unopposed on his ticket, was given a complimentary vote of 1,199.

Votes cast for other Democratic candidates were: George Eitel, Circleville township, 1,004; Earl Hoffman, Washington township, 956, and William Beavers, Scioto township, 945.

Hunsicker Far Ahead

Clark K. Hunsicker, Circleville, received 2,872 votes as compared with 1,107 for William I. Spangler, Turlington, in the race for the Democratic nomination for representative to the general assembly. William Radcliff, mayor of Williamsport, Republican, unopposed on his ticket for the general assembly post, received a complimentary vote of 1,167.

O. M. Beckett, Commercial Point, unopposed for the Democratic nomination for county auditor, received 2,860 votes. Forrest Short, Republican, who seeks reelection, polled 1,271.

Meeker Terwilliger, appointed recently as Common Pleas judge by Gov. Davey, was given 1,707 votes by write-in. Judge Terwilliger's appointment was made too late for his name to be included on the county ticket.

"CASE DISMISSED", BUT IS IT?—POLICE EXCLAIM "NO"

JACKSON, Aug. 10—(UP)—"Case dismissed" the court journal records in an assault case against John Emboden, a W.P.A. worker of New Boston, but it won't read that way when police apprehend him.

Emboden came into the office of Justice R. J. Smith yesterday and at the point of a gun forced the official to mark the journal as he directed.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS, Aug. 10—(UP)—Governor Martin L. Davey today conceded the Democratic nomination for Ohio governor in Tuesday's primary election to Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati. Davey sent a telegram of congratulation to Sawyer from his home in Kent. In 8,546 of the state's 8,601 precincts the vote was Sawyer 438,399, Davey 412,576.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 10—(UP)—Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati took a lead over Martin L. Davey this afternoon in their contest for the Democratic nomination for governor that may win him the right to oppose John W. Bricker, Republican, in the Fall.

In 8,276 out of 8,601 precincts Sawyer held a lead of 425,645 vote against 408,264 for the incumbent governor. With only 325 precincts yet to report, 196 were from Cuyahoga county, a district that did more than any other to defeat Davey. Sawyer's lead was 17,381 votes at 1 p. m.

The race between Gov. Davey and Sawyer was a see-saw affair all the way through the counting of votes. It was impossible to be certain where the chips eventually would fall but Sawyer followers were confident that late returns from the larger counties would carry their candidate to victory.

It was virtually a certainty that U. S. Senator Robert J. Bulkley had been renominated on the Democratic ticket and that Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati had been nominated for senator on the Republican side.

White Defeated

Sen. Bulkley, approved by President Roosevelt because of his support of the New Deal, decisively defeated former Governor George White of Marietta in the primary. Taft, son of William Howard Taft, appeared to have won from Judge Arthur H. Day of the Ohio supreme court.

In 7600 precincts, Sen. Bulkley received 431,001 votes and White 177,527.

In 7550 precincts, Taft received 274,023 and Day 185,041.

Interest in the counting of votes cast in Tuesday's primary—probably a record number—centered entirely on the gubernatorial race.

Bricker G. O. P. Choice

The Democratic nominee will meet John W. Bricker, Columbus attorney, in the November election. Bricker was nominated by Republicans without opposition.

Supporters of Sawyer, the Democratic national committeeman, were confident that final returns would erase the governor's lead and swing the tide to Sawyer. They pointed out that Sawyer's strength lies in the large counties, such as Cuyahoga, still not completely tabulated.

Gov. Davey showed greatest strength in the smaller counties. He was leading in 66 of the 88 counties. On the other hand, Sawyer led in seven of the eight largest.

SCHOOL BOARD ELECTS MISS ROSEMARY JACKSON

Miss Rosemary Jackson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. D. Jackson, N. Scioto street, was employed by the Circleville board of education in a special meeting at noon Wednesday as instructor of social sciences and commercial subjects, Miss Jackson replaces John Barricklow, resigned.

She was the valedictorian of her class in 1932. Miss Jackson was graduated from Miami university in June, 1937. She taught at Degraff, O., during the last term.

NEW DEAL MEN WIN ELECTIONS IN TWO STATES

Sen. Pope of Idaho Has Difficult Time With Conservative Foe

CARAWAY HOLDS EDGE

Bulkley, Taft to Compete in Fall for Ohio
Senate Toga

BY UNITED PRESS
A New Deal senator seeking re-nomination on the basis of his record against a conservative rival, was having a close battle today in returns from yesterday's primaries in four states, while two other New Deal senators seemed assured of re-nomination.

In returns from the Idaho Democratic primary, Sen. James P. Pope, loyal New Dealer, and Rep. D. Worth Clark, who ran as a "conservative Democrat," alternated in the lead with only a few hundred votes separating them. It appeared likely that the issue would not be decided until the last precinct was in.

In Ohio, Sen. Robert J. Bulkley, for whom President Roosevelt spoke a friendly word, was apparently re-nominated over Former Governor George White.

Caraway Has Fight
Sen. Hattie W. Caraway was having a closer race for re-nomination in Arkansas, but, on the basis of partial returns, she was believed the victor over Rep. John McClellan.

Only in Idaho had the new issue been sharply drawn. White and McClellan professed general agreement with President Roosevelt's policies.

Robert L. Taft, son of the former president, appeared to have won the Republican senatorial nomination in Ohio over Judge Arthur H. Day and will oppose Bulkley in this Fall's general election.

Gov. Martin L. Davey was running a close race in the Ohio Democratic gubernatorial primary contest against National Committeeman Charles Sawyer. Trailing in the first returns from urban districts, he overhauled his opponent as rural precincts began reporting in volume, but his lead was small.

In Arkansas, Gov. Carl E. Bailey, seeking re-nomination, was gaining on his opponent R. A. Cook and appeared a probable victor.

In Nebraska, where candidates for state offices and seats in the house were chosen, Gov. R. A. Cochran, a Democrat, won re-nomination for a third term.

There's one thing that employers expect from people that work for 'em and that's cleanliness and neatness. I remember when my Aunt Pudy was workin' for the rich Jones family, doing the cookin'. Mrs. Jones walked into the kitchen one day and got boiling mad and you couldn't blame her.

She says "My goodness, Pudy, all the pots and pans are dirty and this kitchen is a mess! It'll take you all night to clean this up. What have you been doing?" And Aunt Pudy says "Nothin', Mrs. Jones, your daughter has been showin' me how they boil a potato at her cooking school."

Name of Taft Back In News of Nation

COLUMBUS, Aug. 10.—(UP)—The Taft political escutcheon, refurbished after 25 years in comparative obscurity, shone with a new lustre today by virtue of the victory which Robert A. Taft, Cincinnati, elder son of the late President and Chief Justice, scored for the Republican nomination for the U. S. senate.

A rich lawyer with the traditions of his family in the government service inevitably spurring him into politics, Taft overcame serious campaign difficulties to beat Supreme Court Judge Arthur H. Day, of Cleveland, who had been marked as a "vote-getter" without peer.

His triumph put the family name, once a power in the land, again into national prominence. His contest this Fall with Sen. Robert J. Bulkley who defeated former Gov. George White for the Democratic nomination, will be closely watched to see whether Ohio prefers Taft conservatism over the Bulkley allegiance to the New Deal.

The Taft victory over Judge Day is still something of a mysterious phenomenon to many. The defeat of Day, if predicted six months ago, would have been laughed to scorn, for on all sides it was admitted that Day, a genial, personally attractive member of the supreme court, would whip Taft without difficulty.

On National Problems

Throughout the contest Taft confined himself to the issues and dwelt more specifically and at greater length on serious national problems than any other candidate in the state.

His comments attracted attention outside Ohio and leading conservative newspapers and periodicals discussed his candidacy favorably. He never made a secret of his conservatism nor his disapproval of much in the New Deal. His criticism did not, however, descend to the level of hysteria.

Not the best political speaker by any means, he has had difficulty adjusting himself to the demands of a cross country stump speaking tour. Somewhat awkward physical movements and a diffidence that was sometimes mistaken for austerity were handicaps he overcame to a large degree as he accustomed himself to the exigencies of a statewide campaign.

It always has been debated years reference to his father caused him embarrassment and evident distress which friends put down to a desire to earn his way without capitalizing on his father's illustrious position in politics and law

Nominee Is 48

Taft is 48 years old. As a boy he called the White House home during his father's term in the presidency. He was educated in public and private schools, Yale University and the Harvard Law School. For three years while William Howard Taft was governor general of the Philippines the elder son and other members of the family lived in the islands.

Upon graduation from law school Taft immediately began practicing, but the war interrupted his career. Twice he was refused entrance in the army for defective vision. He then turned to civilian war work and became counsel for the American Food Administration and later engaged in work for the American Relief Administration.

His law practice has been eminently successful and he has prosecuted numerous suits of national importance. The most recent was his unsuccessful test case against the government to force it to redeem its obligations in gold after gold payments were suspended.

He has been an effective political party worker although previously enjoying only moderate success in running for office. He served three terms in the Ohio house of representatives, one as speaker, and was a member of the senate for two years, suffering defeat when he sought re-election. His forte in the general assembly was taxation and he was the guiding force in drafting the intangible and personal property tax laws which are now on the books.

For several years chairman of the Hamilton county Republican executive committee, Taft was the "favorite son" candidate of the Ohio delegation to the 1935 Republican national convention for the Presidential nomination. Actually the honor was an empty one for politicians recognized that the delegation was pro-Landon, a "favorite son" having been elected to avoid a direct, open split with a faction supporting Sen. William E. Borah.

Live In Rich Section

The Taft family has a solid place in the cultural and social life of Cincinnati. Taft and Mrs. Taft with their four boys, live in a spacious home called "Skylands" in the rich Indian Hill section East of the city.

Mrs. Taft who proved herself more adaptable to campaign demands than her husband is the daughter of Lloyd Bowers, solicitor general of the United States under President Taft.

Both Taft and Mrs. Taft are prominent in city affairs and are patrons of literature, art and music in a city which prides itself on its reputation for appreciation of the arts.

Although only one former U. S. president (Herbert Hoover) is now living, wives of six ex-presidents survive.

when driving South on Pickaway street and his car collided with an auto being driven Westward on Watt street by Ray Huffman. Mrs. Huffer suffered a fractured pelvis and three broken ribs and had to be placed in a cast for eight weeks. She seeks $400 for medical bills and hospitalization. White is her brother-in-law.

EYES OF DEAD WOMAN RESTORE SIGHT FOR TWO

Middle-Aged Minister and Young Student of Music See

Pastor Blind for 43 Years To Stay in Hospital Another Week

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10—(UP)—Two men, one a middle-aged minister, the other a youthful student of music, looked out today on a world they hadn't seen in years, a world they hadn't known since they lost their sight.

To them it was a world filled with sunshine and happiness, one of beautiful colors and strange faces. It was almost like being born all over again, thrust into life as an adult instead of as a child.

The eyes of Mrs. Margaret Carr, who died almost two weeks ago, restored sight to the Rev. U. E. Harding of Portland, Ore., and Arthur Morton, 21, a pianist of Sacramento, Cal.

Neither the Rev. Mr. Harding nor Morton was permitted to receive visitors. It would be a week, doctors said, before they could adjust themselves to their new lives. But surgeons, who preferred to remain anonymous, described their patients' reaction in the extraordinary situation.

"I can see," the Rev. Mr. Harding said when the bandages were removed. "I can see your hand. I can count your fingers. I see colors. I know what you look like."

First Time in 43 Years Tears filled his eyes. He still was blind in one eye, but from the other he had seen for the first time in 43 years.

A few minutes later surgeons took the dressing from the eyes of Morton. The young musician stared for a moment at the face above him. He, too, still had one eye that was useless.

"Things are blurred," he said. His voice hardly was audible although the room was deathly quiet.

"But I can see," he said. Then he fainted.

For another week the Rev. Mr. Harding and Morton will be in the hospital. Then they will resume their private lives. Harding returning to his pastorate in a Portland Nazarene church, Morton once again turning to the study of piano.

Ophthalmologists who performed the operations said that in the seven transplantations in which cornea tissues from dead persons had been used only these two might be classed as successful.

"Of especial interest," one physician said, "is that the cornea came from the eyes of an 80-year-old woman, yet brought sight to a middle-aged man and to a youth. That's why we prefer to remain unidentified. It might injure the public if we received publicity, for these operations cannot be guaranteed."

METHODISTS TO GATHER AUG. 24 FOR BIG PICNIC

Methodist Brotherhoods of Pickaway county will hold a picnic Aug. 24 at the Seven Oak Grove, four miles West of Circleville on Route 22.

There will be no speaking. Baseball and other games will be played. All Methodists of the county and their families are invited. They are asked to bring a basket picnic supper with table service.

Officers of the brotherhood are Edward C. Rector, president; Homer V. Reber, vice president, and H. W. Plum, secretary.

MONROE BOARD MEETS TO PICK TWO TEACHERS

Monroe township board of education will meet Wednesday at 8 p. m. to consider employment of two high school teachers.

The board is awaiting word from an applicant who has been sent a contract to teach commercial subjects and English. The other teacher to be employed will teach home economics and Latin.

George Raft, last seen with Sylvia Sydney in "Pick Up," is co-starred with the New York-born screen tragedienne again in "You and Me," the new film that will unroll starting today on the screen of the Cliftona theatre.

Raft, recently seen in "Souls at Sea," in which he played an entirely different characterization from the familiar patent leather hair, squint-eyed "mug," again portrays a different part from the one that won him screen fame in "Scarface." He has discarded most of his familiar mannerisms after his last picture, and as he puts it, is building a "new career" for himself.

In "You and Me" Raft portrays an ex-convict and casual drifter who only awakens to his real self in the pleading arms of the girl who loves him.

AT THE GRAND Peter Lorre, who has moved into the start class of actors in the last few months, appears at the Grand theatre Wednesday in a new thriller, "Thank You, Mr. Moto."

ELECTION BOARD ENDS UNOFFICIAL CHECKUP EARLY

Unofficial tabulation of Pickaway county's vote in the primary was completed about 3 a. m., Wednesday, the earliest tabulation in many years.

The first partial report was received from South precinct, Jackson township, at 8:15 p. m. This report was followed a few minutes later by calls from Muhlenberg township, Darbyville and Commercial Point. The last report was from Madison township at 2:50 a. m. South Bloomfield was the first to bring in supplies and file a complete report.

Tabulators assisting at the board of elections office were Harry Bartholomew, Karl Hermann and Carl Bennett, Circleville, and Fred Tipton, Williamsport. Lawrence Johnson, clerk of the board, was kept busy receiving telephone calls from precincts. A board was operated at the courthouse by Joseph Adkins, Jr., assisted by John Heiskell. The board was kept up to the minute and relieved congestion around the board of elections office.

Members of the board of election will start their official tabulation Wednesday morning by making a careful check of poll books and reports. Members expected to spend the entire day on the tabulation.

Successful candidates for central committeemen will be announced later. No tabulations were made on the unofficial report.

DAVEY CARRIES PICKAWAY OVER CINCINNATI FOE

County Gives Governor 3,172 Ballots; Sawyer Obtains Total of 2,026

UIBLE LIKED LOCALLY

Bulkley and Day Go Ahead Here; Knisley Given Splendid Vote

Governor Martin L. Davey, regardless of how his contest in the state with Charles Sawyer terminates, carried Pickaway county by more than 1,000 votes, unofficial totals from the county's 40 precincts disclosed early today.

Davey was given 3,172 votes against 2,026 for his Cincinnati foe.

The governor had the active support of the Pickaway county Democratic organization.

Davey's support was widespread in the county, his lead being gathered from rural and city precincts alike.

The governor's chief lieutenant in the house of representatives, Frank Uible of Cleveland, received a splendid vote in Pickaway county, leading all other candidates for the lieutenant governor's race in the primary.

Uible, a personal friend of Representative Clark Hunsicker, gathered 818 votes against Day with 661; Ward with 617; Metzbaum with 590; Davidson, 143; Halper, 264; Rogers 252; Steele, 215.

Clarence Knisley, treasurer asking re-election, received 2,422 against 1,541 for J. J. Kennedy, his opponent in Pickaway county.

The Republican leader in the treasurer's race was Marion Hoover, native of Ashville, who scored 437.

The county gave Senator Robert Bulkley a large margin over ex-Governor George White, the incumbent garnering 2,602 votes against 1,518. Judge Arthur Day of Cleveland ran ahead of Robert Taft of Cincinnati in Pickaway county with 891 ballots against 505.

Stephen Young, Cleveland, surprised in the congress-at-large contest with 2,320 votes in the county against 1,579 for Harold Mosler and 1,279 for John McSweeney, the latter two being incumbents in the house. Republicans favored Bender and Marshall, both of Cleveland, with 622 and 599, respectively.

Harry Litten, 48, Walnut township, pleaded guilty in Common Pleas court Tuesday to an indictment charging operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent and larceny, and was placed under a two-year probation by Judge Meeker Terwilliger.

Litten was charged with taking the auto of Harry Margulis, former mayor of Ashville, on May 18.

"PASSING PARADE"

Andy Jackson, famous for his sledgehammer fighting tactics, will be revealed as a lover as great as any of those portrayed by Clark Gable or Robert Taylor during John Nesbitt's "Passing Parade" over the WABC-Columbia network on Sunday, Aug. 14, at 6:30 p. m.

This dramatic and tender revelation will come as a part of a dramatized story of "Ich Liebe Dich," the immortal love song by Grieg. Tenor Al Garr and Oscar Bradley's orchestra will assist Nesbitt in his dramatization.

Other features of the "Passing Parade" will include the amazing way in which Phar Lap, one of the greatest money winners ever to spring from a racing barrier, narrowly escaped becoming a truck horse at the beginning of the steed's career.

The dramatization begins in a horse auction in New Zealand, and carries the massive horse through disappointment and hate until a fat jockey, too heavy to ride any longer, chances upon the secret that changes the racer from a sulky thoroughbred about to be sold to a beer company, to a spirited campaigner on the race tracks of the world.

A bizarre procession of love and avarice that led to murder will mark the appearance of the Grail sisters in the procession of world events. The two English spinsters deceived their neighbors for three decades as to their actual identity.

COLONEL STOOPNAGLE Colonel Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle, who thinks there is no feud like an old feud, will heap coals on the Fred Allen-Jack Benny fracas by poking fun at Dave Elman's "Hobby Lobby," which is replacing Benny for the Summer, as a part of his evening's work on "Town Hall Tonight" over the NBC-Red network on Wednesday.

The good colonel, who is also picking up a few extra dimes by sending poison pen letters to the Benny cast for Fred Allen, has dug up a scathing set of hobby lobby-ists for his own show and is giving ing them treatment at his laboratory on Observatory Hill to make sure they are wacky enough to merit display.

So far, Stoopnagle promises as his star attractions Miss Astazia Hornsnozzle from Blowing-Bugle-on-the-Hudson, who has a magnificent collection of foot-prints from the sands of time; Junius P. Swigguss, of Clambake, in the Rudy Vallee Maine, who has a superb display of high dungeons into which people can get; and Bertram Junk of New York City, who is unusual because he is the only person whose hobby is collecting hobbies.

FEAR OF CHANGE

MANY time in the coming years will be quoted these words of Justice Stanley F. Reed of the United States Supreme Court, spoken to the American Bar Association:

"So long as we are willing to discuss fairly and tolerantly proposals for the modification of our laws and processes of government, our fundamental liberties will be maintained. A mind closed to change, a determination to save for ourselves at all hazards the existing advantages, is a constant threat to the democratic form of government."

For it is not in change in itself that danger lies. The essence of democratic progress is change, with everybody working to make it change for better. It is the "mind closed to change" that is perilous. The Indian trail is followed by the more open way cut and blazed by the white man's axe. Blazed trail gives way to lumber road. Lumber road to wagon way, wagon way to gravel and grave at last to pavement. Each step is necessary, each is contested. The first lighthouse had its opponents. So had the first public school.

But a democracy must take care of its people and their growing needs. The fair and tolerant discussion of proposals for betterment will give us the benefits of the essential changes without the bitterness and rancor produced by the opposition of the closed mind.

HEMISPHERIC FRIENDS

IT is pleasant to be assured, from many sources, that Uncle Sam is now popular in Latin-America. Millions of Americans realize from their own observation that Uncle Sam is also popular in Canada.

Emotions in Mexico, to be sure, are somewhat complicated, with expropriation of American properties and reluctance in paying for them, but the government and people continue professing their friendliness and few of our tourists have any complaint to make. The Puerto Ricans do a little shooting occasionally, but majority leaders insist that it's merely local politics.

Anyway, Edward Tomlinson, described as an "author, lecturer and authority on South American affairs," after a careful tour and study of the whole continent, reports that we needn't worry about how we stand in that important region. The authoritarian countries are losing prestige, popularity and trade, he says, and we are gaining. He quotes Dr. Gil Borges, foreign minister of Venezuela, as expressing this typical view:

"The United States does not need to put on a campaign of propaganda. The ac-

TRAIN SLIPS THROUGH CAROLINA

WASHINGTON—As the President travels North through South Carolina, the country is going to be surprised at the manner in which he keeps hands distictly off the hot Senatorial race.

The Roosevelt train is not stopping in the Palmetto state, as originally planned, to purge from political life Senator Cotton Ed Smith.

Cotton Ed, as chairman of the Agriculture Committee, has caused the New Deal almost more heart-aches than George of Georgia or Tydings of Maryland, but luck has played into his hands.

Luck has come in the form of an old personal animosity between Governor Olin Johnston and Ben Sawyer, head of the Highway Department. These two have been bitter enemies ever since Johnston called out the troops against Sawyer.

Sawyer is a loyal Rooseveltian but his loyalty won't quite stomach friendship for Governor Johnston. In fact, he will do everything in his power to beat Johnston, even if in doing so he swing victory to Cotton Ed Smith.

At present, however, he is expected to swing his powerful support to a third candidate, Edgar Brown, speaker of the State Legislature, a New Dealer. Brown is a brilliant lawyer, a staunch defender of the President's Court plan, but not so well known as Governor Johnston, who also supported the Court plan and is very friendly to Roosevelt.

Into this complicated melee, the President does not intend to plunge. He does not want to antagonize either Johnston or Brown. The best he can do is to keep out and hope for a run-off election. In this case, and if Cotton Ed is opposed by only one New Dealer, the President will not hesitate to give him his blessing.

WINE CONNOISSEUR

Homer S. Cummings may not be a whirlwind as a New Deal Attorney General, but as a connoisseur of wines—well, that's different.

Sipping tomato juice at a cocktail party, Mrs. Cummings regretfully waived aside a stronger potion.

"I'd love to," she explained sadly to her hostess, "but I just cannot. My doctor says no. It's too bad, too, because I always did think I knew how to choose fine wines. We still serve them at home."

"Homer is the real wine expert, though. He can tell the name and vintage by the taste. I was telling the French Ambassador about it and he proposed that we try Homer out."

"And you know," concluded Mrs. Cummings proudly, "Homer gave the right answer ever time. It was just too wonderful."

tions of your country have done more to improve the standing of the United States in Latin-America than any special campaign of propaganda could possibly do."

The British war minister remarks in Paris that France and Britain are now united under "what seems to be one general staff and one flag." That flag, we'd guess, is the Union Jack. And Britain's got both the union and the jack.

How Appendix Is Formed, Causes of Infection

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
OUR DISCUSSION of appendicitis yesterday was somewhat dogmatic, and today it may be well to add a more logical description.

The appendix is a small part of the intestine, at the juncture of the small and large bowel. It has no purpose nor function in man. In him it is a vestigial structure—a mere degenerate remnant of the magnificent caecum of our perhaps distant relatives, the ruminants.

Like all vestigial structures, it gets into trouble—like capitalism and monarchy (and democracy?). Functionless organs are peculiarly liable to disease.

And the appendix is more helpless than most, because the contents of the intestines, as Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

they move over it, are a mass of germs. The appendix itself being mostly lymphatic tissue on the inside surface, is particularly liable to infection. So all the elements of trouble are at hand.

There has been quite a discussion in the medical journals lately about the possibility of trauma causing appendicitis. Trauma means violence—a blow, a fall, an accident of any kind. A certain number of cases of appendicitis are caused by injury to the abdomen, the most plausible explanation being that the blow forces the infected contents of the large intestine into the cavity of the appendix, which is usually closed—a matter of protection on nature's part.

Remarkable Instance

A most remarkable instance of appendicitis due to trauma, which came to my attention, was that of a man whose illness began with vague pain in the region of the appendix. Finally an abscess formed at this point, which a surgeon opened. It was considered to be an ordinary appendix abscess until during the dressing of it one day, a peculiar foreign body was seen sticking out of the wound. The patient discovered this himself. The surgeon who was dressing the wound took hold of it with a forceps and pulled out a toothpick.

How did a toothpick get into an appendix abscess? Undoubtedly the patient had swallowed it. He did not think he had, and could not remember any occasion when he had accidentally swallowed a toothpick, but that is the only explanation that will hold. Foreign bodies frequently are swallowed without the slightest sensation accompanying the act. The toothpick had made its way miraculously do, through the digestive tract until it got to the juncture of the small and large bowel, and there it stuck, perforated the coat of the intestine and caused the abscess which initiated appendicitis.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

C. A.: "Is it all right to take aromatic spirits of ammonia for nervousness?"

Answer: Aromatic spirits of ammonia is a rapidly-acting stimulant, the effects of which pass off rapidly. Hence it is used mostly in fainting. It can be used in some forms of indigestion. Its use for nervousness is unfamiliar to me, but it can do no harm, because it is so volatile in ordinary doses.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diarrhea," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

ON HER way back to the De Luxe, Noel walked fast. The truth is, she almost ran. But when she was within a few yards of the place, she slowed down and caught her breath. Then she walked in the cafe as if she had merely strolled in casually.

Julian was standing near the register, looking over a paper. He was the only one in the cafe aside from the proprietor. When he saw Noel, he threw down the paper and walked toward her. "So we didn't miss each other, after all? This is great. I'd about given up hope."

Noel said "Hello" a little shakily, realizing that she was still breathing rather too rapidly.

Then Julian took her arm and they were going out to his car. The sun was shining again, a little uncertainly perhaps, but quite gaily at that. And there were many hours left yet before it would be night.

Noel stole a glance at Julian's dark face. A wave of happiness swept over her. It was wonderful to be walking here beside him in the sunlight.

But she couldn't help seeing that there was a look of strain on Julian's face. "You look tired," Noel said.

He smiled. "I was—but I'm not now."

They reached the car. Then Julian said, his voice husky. "Rather a hectic morning. An operation at 10—an emergency, and, too late, I'm afraid."

The look on his face went straight to Noel's heart. She made up her mind she must make him forget his work for a little while.

She said, "I'm going to drive, and you're going to sit beside me quietly, and not talk too much. You must try to relax."

"I'd like that," Julian answered. "It will give me a chance to look at you all I want to."

"You'll probably find the scenery more interesting," Noel retorted gaily. "We're going to the river—our river, aren't we?"

Julian nodded. "And I just remember that I forgot our lunch."

"We'll find a hamburger joint," she told him with a laugh.

Noel drove through the sleepy Sunday streets without any traffic problems at all. "I never noticed how quiet the city is on Sunday," she said. "Nobody seems in a hurry. People actually take time to be polite. I adore it."

"So do I," Julian said, relaxing against the seat. Then he said abruptly, "You've changed a lot, Noel. I fully expected you to be angry because I disappointed you. And here you are giving me your sweetest smile and looking like a Botticelli angel."

"Pul-leaze," Noel laughed. "I can't understand how Ruth got things so mixed up." Julian went on thoughtfully. "She knew I'd be in surgery at 10. It seems very strange that she didn't phone you and deliver my full message. It isn't like her at all to forget things like that. She's always so—"

"Yes, I know," Noel began sympathizing. "She's always so efficient." She gave a laugh and the veiled irony in her voice made Julian look at her in sudden surprise.

"She really is, Noel. This is the first time I've ever known her not to get things exactly right. She was probably in a hurry and didn't realize how important it was to me."

"I'm quite sure she didn't," Noel said with another throaty little laugh. "You don't actually believe she would do a thing like that on purpose?" Julian asked incredulously. "He was feeling puzzled by Noel's light banter."

"No, no, of course not," Noel exclaimed, looking at him with widening eyes and uplifted brows. She was thinking that there were times when Julian was deliciously naive. But then, she knew, that even the most brilliant of men were often obtuse when it came to women. She found herself looking at Julian and laughing.

again at the puzzled expression on his face.

"You women!" Julian exclaimed with mock contempt.

"After all," Noel went on, "it doesn't matter what she did, or why she did it—now. But if you had been there waiting for me, and I hadn't found it out eventually as I did through Laurie," she stopped, and gave another throaty laugh, "well, that would have been different."

"Wasn't it lucky for me that Laurie was there?" Julian queried seriously.

"Lucky for both of us, you mean," Noel said, and speeded up the car.

It was almost 5 o'clock when they reached the place on the river where the rowboat was beached and everything seemed to be waiting for them.

They leaped from the car and ran a race for the oars. Julian reached them first. "Please let me have them," Noel begged.

Julian shook his head. "No, I always 'row my own boat,'" he said. He brought the cushions and soon had them arranged in one end. "Now you just sit here and relax," he told her.

"And look at you?" she came back.

"Well, if you prefer the scenery—?" Julian let the sentence hang in mid-air.

As soon as Noel was seated among the cushions, he gave the boat a push and stepped lightly in. "Shipmate ahoy! We're off."

Noel sat there watching the play of his brown muscles as he skillfully handled the boat. He had taken off his coat and was wearing a thin polo shirt with the collar open, showing the fine line of his bronzed throat. The expression on his face was one of vast contentment, mingled with something of the glee of a small boy on a holiday. "Great, isn't it?" he asked.

"It's wonderful," Noel said with sincerity. "I keep asking myself," Julian began, "how much longer it's going to last."

"How much longer is what going to last?" Noel asked, though she felt she understood what he meant. Julian let the oars rest in the locks for a moment, and looked at her. "How much longer you're going to keep on with this masquerade? If it goes on much longer, I shan't be able to tell which is the real you, and which is the one—you're pretending to be."

"You still refuse to believe I'm in earnest?" Noel let her hand trickle in the water and did not look up.

"A girl like you," Julian began seriously, "does not do what you're doing except from boredom or curiosity. It's too fantastic."

"So you think there couldn't possibly be another reason?" she asked slowly, still not looking at him.

It was a long, long kiss. When Julian released her at last, his eyes were serious. "What am I going to do about you, Noel?"

"The answer is really quite simple," she said demurely. Julian shook his head. "There isn't any answer," he said in a voice that was almost bitter. And added, "There never will be."

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up at the usual hour and soon downtown to find all the politicians and political workers out ahead of me. Learned that 25 voters already had registered their performance in my precinct, and that is more folk than I usually see in all the first hours of my morning travels around the ville. Chatted with Bryan Custer, county manager of Sawyer's campaign, and found him tired and confident. Turned about and met a group of Davey workers and everyone of them said that the governor had the nomination in the bag.

At the Coffee Club did play host to Jim Stout and chatted with Paul Johnson and Charlie Smith, both of whom were jubilant over outlocking Earl in a contest for their Java. John Hummel arrived so late he could find no contestants and paid for his own. Chatted with Bill Hamilton and agreed with Ed Ebert that the weatherman is slightly overdoing this hot weather. Accepted Bud Hardin's invitation to go fishing one day next week if the creeks clear.

I think that the new pup's name should be made a matter of record. Chinky Soo died under the wheels of a speeding auto and was replaced immediately by another Pekinese, those dogs of Chinese origin. So many men made fun of Chinky that the scrivener's daughter was irked no end. She thought she would beat them to the punch with this pup. So, she named it Ah Foocy.

Steven Petrunak called at the office, bringing with him 40 four-leaf clovers. Thought I needed them, I suppose, and he was right, the way things have been going lately. Steven picked the 40 clovers from a single plant.

Henry Swearingen called just after I had headed home for dinner, bringing with him a great bouquet of his prize glads. Before I could visit the plant to claim them some three hours after their arrival someone had stolen all except four of the glads. Well, I don't blame anyone for coveting those flowers. I never saw finer ones than Henry raises.

Saw a shipment of fine lake trout sent from Ontario by Ham Rogers, who is up near the Soo on vacation. Same place I fished in the early Spring, only the lakers were not hitting much then.

In the evening did crank the wagon and take to the highways and by-ways, seeking escape from the heat. Finally landed in Rising park at Lancaster, there seeing the most puzzled hen in Ohio at least. She hatched a dozen ducks and her children insist on swimming. When they take to the water she wades out just short of swimming depth and scolds them for all she is worth, probably telling them that the younger generation is headed straight for the bow-wows. But the ducklings do not mind. Remained at the pond until near dark and saw the ducklings leave the water and prepare to spend the night under the wings of their foster mother. My, what a worry those youngsters must be.

Back, then, to the plant to help tabulate votes and give out information on the day's primary vote.

Today's Fashion

WHITE WITH purple is one of the big color combinations of the season and a favorite with very smart women on both sides of the Atlantic. When purple is added to white or to any color, it must be used with discretion; otherwise it will be anything but smart. White and purple have been successfully combined in these accessories. The hat has a brim of white toy and a crown of purple chiffon gracefully draped with a flowing end. The gloves are of white suede with purple stitching in back at the cuff edge. The soft, white kidskin bag is made like a large, soft bow, the leather slipped through two purple enamel rings. It closes with zippers on either side.

JUDGING BY the lunar transits, this may be a day of great activity and commotion, with much stirring that may be pre- saged as reckless, hazardous and ruinous. An impetuous tendency to false moves might incite jealousy and strife. However, if energies are directed into constructive channels, achievements and adventures of a very profitable nature may result.

If This Is Your Birthday Those whose birthday it is face a year in which they may make or mar their future by the manner in which highly-stimulated forces and faculties are directed.

A child born on this day may be masterful, wayward and of high temper and bold initiative, but, at the same time, it may be proud, generous, adventurous and ambitious. These qualities may fit it for a career of power if developed properly.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

DON'T UNDERRATE HIM

GIVE THE other fellow credit for using his brains, too. If he is a good player, consider usually that the bid he has just made was based on about the same kind of hand you yourself would have required in the circumstances. Using this thinking process may save you from making many costly bids and doubles which at first thought appear thoroughly sound.

One-Diamond was South's initial bid on this deal, followed by an overcall by West of 1-Spade. North passed and East went to 2-Hearts. South showed his second suit with a bid of 3-Clubs. With a singleton in his partner's suit and, as he considered, two tricks in each of the minors, West promptly doubled this bid.

To his dismay, South not only made the bid, but an overtrick. He won the original lead of the heart 10 with the A and followed with the heart K, which West ruffed with the club 5. The spade K was next offered and ruffed by declarer, who then cashed his club A, leaving West with the outstanding high trump. The diamond A was next played and followed by a small one to West's Q. West then took the club K, but was obliged to return another spade for South to ruff. A diamond ruff cleared that suit and the club 9 afforded South an entry to his hand to run the remaining diamonds.

SCHMIDT CALLS 46 TO APPEAR FOR GRID DRILL

COLUMBUS, Aug. 10—(UP)—One of the smallest squads in recent Ohio State grid history today was invited by Head Coach Francis A. Schmidt to be on hand for the first football drill on Sept. 10. Schmidt asked only 45 gridlers back this season. A year ago he had 60 candidates for the initial drill.

The candidates Schmidt asked to report included 29 holdovers from last season's squad and 17 players up from the freshmen ranks.

Two practice sessions will be held daily from the time the gridlers report until the opening contest on Oct. 1 with Indiana.

Schmidt warned all candidates to report in good shape and be ready for hard work from the outset.

"We will start hard work at the first practice," he said, "Your chances to make the team will depend in a large way on your condition when you report."

Only four players who were classified as regulars last season will return this year. However, the outlook is for a strong team as there is an abundance of seasoned material up from the reserve ranks and a group of brilliant new prospects off the freshman squad.

FRENCH STRONG, HALTING REDS IN 3 TO 0 TILT

CINCINNATI, Aug. 10—(UP)—The Cincinnati Reds today had lost some of the vaunted punch that made them the most dangerous team in the National league from an offensive standpoint.

The Reds fell back into fourth place here yesterday when they were shutout 3 to 0 by the Chicago Cubs.

Between May 30 and July 27 the Reds went 50 games without being blanked, but twice within the last 13 days they have been white-washed. The veteran Danny MacFayden turned the trick during Cincinnati's recent eastern swing and then Larry French duplicated it yesterday.

French, the hard-luck southpaw who has been beaten 15 times this season, was in top form. He limited the Reds to six hits, all of which were singles. Cincinnati did not get a base runner beyond second until the eighth inning when Don Lang, pinch hitting for pitcher Paul Derringer, and Linus Frey banged out successive singles.

Derringer, who was seeking his 15th triumph of the season, pitched creditable ball but was not good enough to match the effort of the invincible French.

INDIANS CLOUT BALL TO GAIN SECOND JOUST

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 10—(UP)—The Cleveland Indians, battling against almost insurmountable odds for the American league pennant, today gave indications of snapping the batting slump that tumbled them out of the lead and made them second choice to the world champion New York Yankees.

Cleveland broke even in a double-header here yesterday winning the nightcap 8 to 1 after losing the opener 4 to 3. The split enabled the Tribe to pick up one-half a game on the Yankees.

Bob Feller started in the box for Cleveland and after hurling effectively for seven innings began to weaken. After giving up only three hits in the first seven rounds the Iowa farmboy permitted the first two men up in the eighth to hit safely and when he pitched two balls to the third batsman Manager Oscar Vitt jerked him.

Vitt's move was a poor one. Regardless of how bad Feller might have gotten he could not have fared any worse than Denny Galehouse who succeeded him. A single and a double sent Galehouse promptly to the showers and Johnnie Humphries came on to finally retire the side after three runs had crossed the plate.

The Indians had scored twice in the fourth and once in the fifth to overcome a one run lead the Browns had established in the first inning.

In the second game Earl Whitehill, veteran southpaw, scattered nine hits and was never in trouble after Cleveland scored five times in the second inning.

Downing and sisters Ann, Joan and Elizabeth were Monday afternoon visitors at the home of Mrs. Florence Campbell and family.

Martin Peterson of Austin is spending two weeks with his uncle and aunt Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Briggs.

Mrs. Ward Dean spent Friday night and Saturday with her mother Mrs. Charles Agan near Kingston, going on to Tar Hollow Saturday for her sons Edwin and Rodney and John Peck, who had spent the week there in 4-H camp.

Miss Dorie Dean is visiting in Columbus with her aunt Mrs. Gertrude Fleisher and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Elliott and son Lavern of near Greenfield, Mrs. Belle Moore of Boston, Mass., and daughter of Columbus were Sunday afternoon visitors with Mr. William Bennett and son Bertus and Mrs. Maggie Wheeler.

Roy and Herold Dennis and son Jimmy attended the Air races at Port Columbus Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tarbill were visitors with relatives in Columbus Thursday.

Betting Odds Favoring Armstrong Over Ambers

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—(UP)—A little brown man who may be the meanest piece of fighting machinery since the invention of the galling gun has a date with the lady called destiny tonight when the clock stands at 10 and the lights are hot above a ring at the Polo grounds.

Henry Armstrong says he'll marry the gal.

He goes after his third world championship when he ducks into the ring to face Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers, and the betting odds are three to one that come 11 o'clock the little Negro will be something that no man has ever done before—lightweight, featherweight and welterweight champion of the world. If he wins tonight his next opponent will be an African head hunter armed with a circular buzz-saw.

All this talk about Armstrong being a super-fighter—the best man, pound for pound, who ever lived—failed to impress the young man with the twisted nose who holds the lightweight championship. Ambers thinks odds are something made by pasty-faced men who never get in there and sock and he pays no attention to them. His plan is to stab Armstrong blind, re-open a cut in his lip with uppercuts and send the Negro staggering around the ring, tracking his own blood across the resin.

"And then," Ambers said, "the referee will step in there and stop it."

Odds on Armstrong

The odds are 10 to 1 against Ambers scoring a knockout and not even the lightweight champion himself claims he will put Armstrong down for the count. But he does believe he can stay out of danger with shifty footwork and kangaroo leaps long enough to chop Armstrong into hamburger and win a technical knockout.

Armstrong will wage the only kind of battle he knows how to fight, using the technique of a windmill in a spanking breeze. He plans to start throwing punches with both hands when he leaps out of his corner, crowding the pace all the time and driving Ambers along the ropes until he connects. When that happens it usually means lights out. Thirty-five of the last 38 men Armstrong has fought have been knocked out. Al Jolson, who has bet $1,100 to $1,000 that Armstrong scores a knockout, swears he will sing "Mammy" on a downtown corner if Ambers wins.

The fight probably will be better than the gate.

GLITT PITCHER GIVES OIL TEAM SINGLE SAFETY

Warren Lutz in Brilliant Feat; Spike Hill Gets Lone Blow

Warren Lutz, pitcher for the Glitt food market, entered the softball league hall of fame Tuesday, evening when he pitched an "election special" giving the Circleville Oils only one hit, a single by Spike Hill starting the fourth frame. The Glitts won 3 to 0, scoring all of their runs in the third session on a combination of three safe hits and an error.

Lutz turned in a brilliant game from start to finish. He walked two, one was safe on an error and the base blow gave the Oils four runners on base.

The Glitts pounded out six hits off the tosses of Recob, three of them coming in the third period. Glitt filed out, then Lagore singled. Barnes filed out and H. Smith and I. Smith singled before Kern booted Cook's ball.

Lutz, in addition to pitching a splendid game, was the only batter on the field to hit safely twice.

Tonight's game will be between the Eshelman Feeds and Purina Feeds.

CIRCLEVILLE DEFEATS BOND ISSUES, COUNTIANS PASS THREE

LIGHTS, BERGER AND CITY HALL ADDITIONS LOSE

Perry, Monroe and Madison School Districts to Build Structures

Circleville voters turned thumbs down on three bond issues in Tuesday's election, refusing to approve $10,000 for an addition to Berger hospital, $9,000 for a boulevard lighting system, and $12,000 for an addition to city hall. Of the three questions only the hospital issue came anywhere near winning approval.

Each issue required 65 percent of the vote for passage. Vote in the various precincts follows:

Hospital Addition
Precinct	Yes	No
1-A	171	119
1-B	133	65
1-C	104	72
1-D	51	28
2-A	168	83
2-B	117	90
3-A	98	61
3-B	103	86
4-A	59	69
4-B	71	74
4-C	106	114

City Hall Addition
Precinct	Yes	No
1-A	153	128
1-B	103	80
1-C	82	85
1-D	34	37
2-A	130	104
2-B	97	90
3-A	69	82
3-B	85	77
4-A	44	65

1-B	92	100

The hospital addition, which would have included a maternity ward, was supported by the Pickaway County Medical society. It was given a splendid vote, the margin being more than 300 in favor of the project, but it did not gather the necessary 65 percent. The city hall addition was given an edge of only a few votes, about 15 percent less than the number needed for passage. The boulevard light system was snowed under, 400 more voters opposing it than favoring it.

All three projects would have received federal grants amounting to a large part of the cost. The questions were placed on the ballot following necessary legislation by council. The hospital addition was urged by Safety Director Karl J. Herrmann, the hospital staff and the physicians. The city hall addition did not receive backing in the city's official family, Mayor W. B. Cady and Councilman Frank Lynch opposing a one-story building as called for in the plans. They urged two stories. The structure would have included a new jail, garage and offices for the board of health. The boulevard lighting system was put up to a vote after the city turned down a 10-year contract with the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. for a lighting system that included crenelated poles. The new project would have called for modern steel poles.

Total cost of the hospital addition would have been $18,000; city hall addition $21,810, and boulevard lights, $15,000.

Perry township voters proved their interest in construction of a school addition by voting 275 to 13 for a $35,750 bond issue. Support of the issue was 95 percent.

The Perry district, center of the government's rural resettlement area, will build an addition to house a gymnasium-auditorium. The estimated cost of the addition is $65,000. The government has already allotted $29,250 to help finance the project. The Perry township school enrollment is expected to be increased by 60 pupils in the next year, the resettlement project causing the gain.

STATEMENT OF CONGRESSMAN CLAYPOOL

I was very naturally extremely gratified at the overwhelming endorsement of my record by the Democrats of the 11th. District.

My vote in Pickaway county was exceptionally pleasing to me. I also fully appreciate the good wishes of my good Republican friends as evidenced by their interceding with their friends in the Democratic party.

I will wage my campaign for election upon my record and as in the primary I shall have no criticism to make of my opponent.
